

114th Annual Scientific Assembly Meeting Program

October 28-30, 2022
Black Fox Lodge
Pigeon Forge, TN

Southern Medical Association is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The Southern Medical Association recognizes SMA Services inc for their support of SMA's 2022 Annual Scientific Assembly

Accreditation and CME Credit

Southern Medical Association is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™

Southern Medical Association designates this Live activity for a maximum of 12.25 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

To receive CME credit you MUST attend the activity, and complete the attendance/attestation evaluation form (links will be emailed post-conference).

CME Request Form and Evaluation

CME credit is managed through an on-line process. After the Assembly has ended, SMA will email you a link to our website to complete the CME request form and Assembly evaluation. After you complete and submit your evaluation and attendance documentation, you will receive your CME certificate within 24 hours from customerservice@sma.org. If you have not received your certificate within 24 hours, please check your spam filter, or contact SMA: 800.423.4992; email: customerservice@sma.org.

Disclosure of Conflicts of Interest

Southern Medical Association (SMA) requires instructors, planners, managers, and all other individuals who are in a position to control the content of this activity to disclose conflicts of interest (COI) with ineligible companies within the last 24 months of the development of this activity. All identified COIs are thoroughly vetted and mitigated prior to the release of the activity. SMA is committed to providing its learners with high quality activities and related materials that promote improvements or quality in healthcare and not a specific proprietary business interest of a commercial interest.

Disclosure information for all individuals who were involved in the planning and implementation of the educational content being presented during the SMA's Scientific Assembly will be made available in a slide presentation prior to each session.

Disclaimer

The primary purpose of SMA's (Southern Medical Association's) accredited Annual Scientific Assembly is to meet the educational needs and address practice gaps of health care professionals by providing practice-oriented and scientifically based content that will advance the learners' competence and performance. Information presented and techniques discussed are intended to inform physicians of medical knowledge, clinical procedures, and experiences of physicians willing to share such information with colleagues. It is recognized that a diversity of professional opinions exists in the contemporary practice of medicine, which influences the selection of methods and procedures. The views and approaches of faculty are offered solely for educational purposes and do not represent those of the SMA or constitute endorsement by the SMA. The SMA disclaims any and all liability for injury or other damages to any individual participating in these CME activities and for all claims which may result from the use of the information presented.

Faculty and Leadership

Junaid Alam is a second year Internal Medicine Resident in Texas. I graduated from a DO school in Philadelphia in 2020. I am very pleased to be part of the SMA PIT Committee and look forward to working with other residents, medical students and leadership staff in trying to promote superior healthcare training in the USA. I look forward to bringing various ideas that I have that can prove valuable to upcoming medical students and residents. I am also interested in mentoring and passing on my experience so others can learn. I plan on bringing medical education to the forefront and develop ideas that can create better physicians and leaders of healthcare. I spend my free time playing with my two young boys and hanging out with my wife. I also enjoy watching and playing sports in addition to hiking, watching movies and traveling.

Dr. Steven Baldwin, who became the Editor-in-Chief of the Southern Medical Journal in January 2020, recently retired from the Pediatric Emergency Medicine Division at the University of Alabama at Birmingham

Dr. Desirée Burroughs-Ray holds a bachelor of arts in human biology from Stanford University, as well as a master of public health and medical doctorate from University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences. She is board certified by both the American Board of Pediatrics and the American Board of Internal Medicine. Dr. Burroughs-Ray completed her combined Internal Medicine-Pediatrics residencies through the University of Tennessee Health Sciences Center, where she also served as a PGY-4 Internal Medicine-Pediatrics and PGY-5 Internal Medicine Chief Resident. Dr. Burroughs-Ray currently works as an academic hospitalist at Le Bonheur Children's Hospital and Regional One Health, providing world-class care to patients across multiple specialties. She serves as faculty advisor for the Internal Medicine Resident Wellness Committee and presented a workshop at a national meeting to assist other residencies in promoting wellness.

Dr. Donna L. Breen is an Otolaryngologist practicing general ENT and allergy in Marksville, Louisiana after finishing her residency at Tulane Medical Center in 1988. She graduated from University of Alabama Medical School cum laude in 1983. Also, she completed a fellowship in Otolaryngic Allergy in 1992. Dr. Breen, who became an SMA member in 1984, is proud to serve the needs of a semi rural small town community and take care of adults and children with ear, nose, and throat problems who would have to travel many miles for their care.

Having been raised in North Carolina as part of a military family, Dr. Lawrence Carter appreciated early on the diversity of our population. While paying back his time in the United States Air Force, Dr. Carter discovered his passion for empowering his patients instead of just enabling them. This entails educating his patients about healthy diets and activities and helping them develop a personalized wellness plan. While serving on the board of Catawba County Health Partners, Dr. Carter helped develop the "Eat Smart, Move More" campaign to encourage more activity in his community. He also spearheaded a nationally recognized program partnering local farmer's markets with the Health Department to provide access to healthy food choices for those with limited resources.

Magnus Chun is a 4th-year medical student at Tulane University School of Medicine in New Orleans, LA. He is applying to Internal Medicine residency. His professional goals are in the areas of medical education and clinical research. Since last year, Magnus has initiated and taught the introduction to clinical research electives at Tulane University School of Medicine and was the clinic director for a student-run clinic in New Orleans. Magnus enjoys mentoring other students in research and enjoys networking with physicians across the nation. He looks forward to sharing his passions in research and encouraging SMA members to partake in research opportunities. When not in the hospital, Magnus enjoys tennis, training for Ironman triathlons, playing the piano, and hiking.

Zachary Olivos is a fourth year medical student pursuing an MD/MBA/MPH in Health Policy at Tulane University. He completed undergrad at Case Western Reserve University on a theater and academic scholarship. He additionally earned his MS in Physiology and Biophysics at Georgetown through the Yellow Ribbon program. He has dedicated interest in establishing viable capitation-based payment structures that empower primary care physicians to provide quality care removed from the restrictions of prior authorization. He worked in various EMS roles in Ohio for three years prior to attending medical school. In his free time, he volunteers with the Cajun Navy Relief during hurricane season, providing supplies and constructing temporary relief structures for individuals afflicted by storm surges along the Gulf Coast. He is very excited to be a part of the SMA-PIT, and is deeply passionate about his personal vice, Diet Coke.

Mohammed Afraz Pasha is a second year Internal Medicine resident at North Alabama Medical Center at Florence, Alabama. Cardiology and traveling are two things I am passionate about. Prior to my residency journey in the United States, I practiced in India and the United Kingdom. I am excited to work towards creating mentoring relationships and networking opportunities to guide medical students and residents plan their career pathway. I want to find ways to popularize early research among medical students and residents. By creating avenues like virtual monthly case reports and journal clubs I want to promote their development in their field of interest. While off work, I enjoy undertaking road trips and exploring places.

Trent Percy is an osteopathic medical student. As a lifelong resident of Florida and student/trainee in the state of Arkansas, I look forward to providing healthcare to the southern United States. Having a prior job in research, I have a profound interest in sharing novel ideas that will one day revolutionize medicine moving forward. At home, I enjoy art, movies, sports and spending time with my family.

Andrew is a rising third-year internal medicine resident at HCA Florida Citrus in Inverness, Florida. He graduated from the University of South Florida Morsani College of Medicine in 2020 with a scholarly concentration in medical education. He plans to pursue a fellowship this year in cardiology in hopes to further specialize in cardiac critical care or advanced heart failure.

Dr. Steven Strode was an Assistant Professor for the Department of Family and Community Medicine at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences from 1978-1990 and an Associate Professor from 1990-2008, serving as a residency program director and acting department chairman before being the medical director for the statewide Arkansas Area Health Education Program.
